LONDON—While most of the rest of Europe is at peace, 25,000 British and American troops have been standing guard on the Morgan Line, which separates Zone A from Zone B in the Italian province of Veneto, Giulianova.

67 Sales This Year

More City Land Sold For New Buildings Here

A church building, two apartment blocks, 20 dwellings and three store buildings will be erected in Edmonton as soon as the construction season starts as a result of sales made in the last few days by the city land department.

SIXTY SEVEN BEGINNING of the year 67 sales have been made by the department for a cumulative total of $1,800,000, and the estimated total for the year, including total of approximately $450,000.

During the past three days 27 parcels of land were sold by the department, the total of sales being $14,200.

The St. Andrew's Presbyterian church building, located on the corner of 99th street and 118 Avenue, on which it is proposed to erect a new church, was the last of the 67 sales this week.

Two sales were made by the department for a cumulative total of $18,200.

Three store buildings will be erected, on Stony Plain Road east of 143 Street, and one on the north east corner of 106 Street and 82 Avenue.

TWENTY-FIVE BUILDINGS are to be erected by the city land department for apartment buildings with the average cost of the home to be erected stated to be $5,000.

Two sales were made to owners desirous of extending their homesites.

U.K. Brides, Kiddies Sail in February

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(CP)—A large-scale movement of the British army wives and children of Canadian servicemen will be made to Britain with between 6,000 and 8,000 dependents in tow, according to Canadian military authorities in London announced today.

Chuq also said the liner Mauretania will leave Liverpool January 20 and return to Canada after a two-week stay.

Twenty thousand passengers will travel on the liner.

SHIPPING AVAILABLE

During February it will be more than four months since a peace statement and a heating ban of dependents can begin without beginning in any way the repair of front-line houses.

Only about 17,000 Canadian army personnel exclusive of the Canadian Arctic Air Route force are overseas at the end of February, compared to 33,000 at the end of this month. The total number of personnel repatriated by Jan. 31 will be 22,000.

The transports, which arrived at Liverpool today, sail for Halifax "in the near future" carrying some 600 Canadian servicemen and their wives and 2,000 Canadian wives and children. Troops discharged by dependents will travel on the Lady Rodney, which sails for Halifax at the same time.

Believe Americans Beaten to Death, Then Set Afire

NUERNBERG, Jan. 11.—(AP)—

The army newspaper Stars and Stripes reported today that American military government officers had been found in a half-buried house near the Austrian-Bavarian border.

"Sobersides," the paper said there were indications that the officers were beaten to death and the bodies set afire with gasoline, "the paper said.

An army investigation already was under way.

Picket Lines Established in Major Cities

Strike Paralyzes Telephone System in U.S.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Pickets marched to-day before nearly every American telephone and telegraph company exchange throughout the United States, a company spokesman said, in a strike development threatening to paralyze the country's telephone system.

JOHN J. FERRELL, CHIEF

OF THE ASSOCIATION OF COMMUNICATING EQUIPMENT WORKERS

(IAEW)下令了 the picket lines established today, ordering all members to postpone the picketing until Monday.

Telephone installation workers took their picket places before exchanges in such cities as New York, Washington, Chicago, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Boston, Detroit, Newark, N.J., Columbus, Cleveland and Denver, O. B. Wilson, Atlanta, N.Y., Memphis, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The country's telephone system system was paralysed. Many telephone members said it had assurance from other telephone unions including the National Association of Telephone Workers that the CIO picket lines would be removed.

In Washington, an official of the telephone department said that if a tie-

Yellowknife

parties and cause to be solved before Yellowknife will reach the stage of development which the government has in mind," he said.

The speaker added: "I urged the chamber of commerce and other organizations to press for lowering of rail rates, weight limits and better improved water transportation facilities of the Athabasca river is necessary."

HE CONGRATULATED the federal and provincial governments on the new road to be constructed between Grimshaw and Yellowknife, and said: "This will be in service during the end of 1947."

Hon. N. E. Tanner, provincial minister of lands and mines was lauded for his interest on behalf of the new development in Alberta and the far north.

THEY ARE THREE things up which the government can do to help Yellowknife: develop the area, develop the northern mineral areas. These are in order of importance:

(1) What Yellowknife can mean to Edmonton; (2) What there actually is in the Yellowknife area.

In dealing with what Edmonton stands to gain by the development of Yellowknife, Mr. McCrae traced the history of mining operations in Northern Ontario, by way of illustration.

EDMONTON HAD a population of 2,000 in 1901 with a few small nickel mines the only activity in the area. Today there are 50,000 people in the city and 100,000 in the surrounding 600 and Kirkland Lake between 25,000 and 30,000. The adjacent Quebec mining fields are populated by 20,000.

"These people are great consumers of farm products and there is demand for all kinds of goods, so much as that the mining area of Northern Ontario was an anchor point for the country during the years of the great depression."

Last year Ontario's miners produced 1,000,000 tons of gold at $100. In 1941 an all-time production record of $267,000,000 was mined in the province.

He detailed statistics showing the immense contribution that all the provinces of Canada have made to the war effort.

Edmonton, all of Alberta and the west too will prosper in like manner if sufficient vision and enterprise are displayed here, he declared.

AT ACTUAL WEALTH Gold in the ground, Mr. McCrae stated that the Negus company, which has houses, has taken gold valued at $4,750,000 from its small fields there since operations commenced.

The company plans further expansion and will purchase 200 additional mining properties in the area.

"We are going to follow our business," he said.

Continuing, Mr. McCrae said:

"THERE IS ONE MINE UP THERE APPROPRIATELY CALLED 'Giant Yellowknife.' Up to the end of 1945 tests made at several levels have totalled 2,000,000 feet and 2,250,000 fine ounces of gold at $40,000,000 plus ready and waiting."

"We are going to follow our business," he said.

Continuing, Mr. McCrae said:

"YELLOWKNIFE is a great national resource and it is the duty of every Canadian to help develop Northern Ontario Development, placing $100,000 in a fund to assist solely in development in Northern Ontario."

THE ACTION was largely responsible for the great growth and success of Yellowknife.

"Nothing human is perfect, but Yellowknife is a good example of how good solid backing for a worthwhile prospect and that he has given men behind him," said the speaker.

HE CALLED for more of the vision and spirit of the founding fathers of Canada, and said:

"John A. MacDonald, D'Arcy McGee and others who saw a great and United Canada on the horizon and the days ahead."

Their faith has been more than justified as Canada's part in two world wars has proved.

"They were the bravest of the brave in the battle to win independence for Canada in Canada has now even surpassed the United States in the number of national wealth."

With the war over Canada should be even more determined to maintain her internal economy if she is to maintain prosperity in the years to come to match the progress made in this development, Mr. McCrae concluded.

DR. JOHN ALLAN, professor of geology at the University of Alberta, who was chairman of the chamber of mines, was chairman in the unusual double absence of Dr. John T. Tanner and Dr. D. J. Jacob.

Mrs. Tanner introduced the speaker and W. G. Cowie, CPR official also present, and Dr. Allan and Mrs. Chamber of Mines, brought greetings from the sister mines organization.

He announced that three previous criminal assaults, "similar to that which preceded the shooting of young John McGregor, occurred within four blocks of each other in the last four months. McGregor was shot at while walking home from his Clarke street home in the Fort House district of South Winnipeg, and was found round a coal bin last Saturday."

Chief Smith expressed belief that all cases are related and that the slayer of John McGregor was responsible for the other three crimes.

THINK SEX PERVERT MAY BE RESPONSIBLE FOR WINNIPEG CRIME WINNIPEG, Jan. 11.—(CP)—There was no person more responsible for the death of 12-year-old Roy McGregor, victim of a gun shot in the back, than the man shot out yesterday in a special bulletin issued by Chief Police George Smith.

Aged Shidehara Stays in Office As Jap Premier

BY RUSSELL BRINES
TOkyo, Jan. 11—(AP)—Aged and sickly Gen. Hideki Tojo and Shidehara will remain in office while his cabinet attempts to solve the political crisis reorganization, the minister of state decided today after a long meeting.

SOME MINISTERS assumed the prime minister would resign in the session in conference with Gen. MacArthur's Jan. 11 political purge of the Japanese cabinet close to the end of the month. However, they declined to disclose the number of possible resignations.

Later, however, the army said that Home Minister Korekiyo Hirokiri had handed his resignation to the prime minister. The minister of state was reported planning to resign.

JAPANESE SOURCES also indicated Shidehara originally desired the minister's resignation on the condition that he be allowed to try a reorganization after arguments raised in today's meeting were resolved.

The chief cabinet secretary, Daisaburo Tsugita, officially announced that the prime minister had agreed another meeting will be held to determine the resignations of ministers affected by Gen. MacArthur's political purge. This probably will not be until Jan. 15, the next regularly scheduled cabinet meeting.

This mine will employ 300 men at the start and there will be a steady increase of production, he predicted.

The mystic northern lights are beckoning and they are beaconing the gold at Yellowknife.

"The SHIMMERING LIGHTS are showing the way to men with the courage to tackle the job and the determination to be bold and willing and eager to do the job."

"All they ask is a fair deal and that the government should give them what they want."

In this connection Mr. McCrae recalled the action of Sir James Whitney, former premier of Ontario, in 1941 of introducing the slow method of separate votes for aiding mining projects in the legislature.

"THE COURTS also found that McCay could not make his claim under section 32 of the Unemployment Insurance Act.

The section reads: Notwithstanding anything contained in the Act, no person shall be entitled to receive a grant for relief or benefit by reason only of his failure to accept employment by accepting a position which he would otherwise be entitled to receive as a member of, or, to continue to be a member of, and to observe the rules of, any association, organization or union of workers.

"This court holds that the claimant is within the provision of section 32 of the act and that he has a right to receive a grant for relief or benefit by reason only of his failure to accept employment by accepting a position which he would otherwise be entitled to receive as a member of, or, to continue to be a member of, and to observe the rules of, any association, organization or union of workers."

"RIGHTLY OR WRONGLY both the British and Dominion governments have been instrumental in what became known as a result of a stoppage of work caused by a labor dispute at a factory, shop or other premises from which the floor was interrupted when Russell Johnston, of Heimbecker, was asked if he could not be excused from attending the meeting.

ANOTHER RESOLUTION which carried without dissent called for the establishment of a committee to study the possibility of establishing a port at the mouth of the Hudson Bay shipping route.

One delegate said the route could be kept open for a great many years and that the port "had disproved the old half-baked idea of the profit system to the effect that the port at Churchill was unapproachable during the winter season."

THE IFA SHOWED keen interest in the cooperative insurance scheme of Saskatchewan's CCF government, and a resolution instructing the IFA board to investigate the possibilities of introducing it in Alberta, was carried.

In a carefully-worded resolution the convention approved a decision that no further increase in taxes should be made in order to encourage and stimulate international trade.

Justice Sworn In TORONTO, Jan. 11.—(CP)—John Mathew斯, 79, who went to Canada 33 years ago to try his hand at the diamond business, was sworn in as Justice of the Peace yesterday by J. C. McRae, chief justice of the province, and W. G. Cowie, registrar of the executive council, administered the oath.

Mr. Mathew斯 arrived at Liverpool Wednesday and he reached Beloit little village, 10 miles from Beloit yesterday. He did not worry about warning his wife of his coming and asked, when she opened the door, "Are you Aggie Mathew斯?"

"She said, "Well, I'm John Mathew斯," he said.

"Aye, I think I do," said his wife after putting on her glasses to look him over.

"You have changed a bit since I last saw you," she said.

When asked why she would not join her husband in Canada she said: "Better a place you know than a place you don't know."

"Merry-Making" Japanese Massacred Yank Soldiers

BY WILLIAM C. WILSON
Executive to The Associated Press
MANILA, Jan. 11.—(UPI)—A Filipino army officer described today how "merry-making" Japanese soldiers beat 16 American soldiers into unconsciousness and pinned them to the ground.

SAYING THE JAPANESE segregated the officers and enlisted men, tied them together and beat them with sticks and stones.

THE WITNESS was Mal. Fred Castro, one of a panel of witnesses testifying at the war crimes trial of Gen. Tomoyuki Homma, who atrocities committed by the Japanese during the Bataan death march.

The trial, which began April 27, 1946,

Mal. Eduardo Vargas testified earlier that the Japanese mas-

Time to Beautify

Mayor Harry Ainay and his associates were elected to office on a highly progressive program which was endorsed overwhelmingly by the people of Edmonton. One of the prominent features of the program was park beautification, and one of the most crying needs in the beautification plan, as everyone recognizes, is the creation of a park in the shabby, untidy and neglected area adjacent to the Macdonald Hotel.

It is not time, then, that Mayor Ainay and his colleagues were beginning to do something about it? Is it not time that a start was made in removing the unsightly shrubs that clutter up what could easily and cheaply be made one of the finest and most attractive breathing spaces in the downtown area of our city?

The city already owns much of the property on this area. The chief stumbling block to consummation of the park plan is the corner property at 100 street and Jasper which was acquired some months ago by Mr. Macmillan for $4,000.

Now this corner property is a cornerstone of the whole development scheme and it is difficult to understand why the city ever permitted the sale of this land at all. If it can be acquired reasonably, the park plan will be well on its way if it is going to be made the object of speculation by any other kind of real estate manipulation, which becomes pure skullduggery where potential park property is concerned, the project, unless the city takes prompt steps, could be held for years.

There is, of course, no indication as yet that this property will be used for speculation. Indeed, Mr. Macmillan is a substantial and respected citizen, presumably with a due measure of civic pride, who might very well be interested in seeing that the city once he is aware it will be used for essential park purposes. The least he could possibly do would be to turn it over to the city for the price for which he acquired it.

It would seem to be important, then, that Mr. Macmillan should have discussions with Mr. Macmillan with the least possible delay so that he may have a chance of doing the decent and generous thing.

One thing is certain—the people of Edmonton want this area cleaned up and parked and they will not tolerate any delay or self-seeking in connection with it.

Not one day should go by before the city commences expatriation proceedings, friendly or legal, to acquire this corner property for essential park purposes.

Getting Into Action

The first general meeting of the United Nations Organization opened on the 26th anniversary of the founding of the League of Nations. No special peace may have been meant in this, except a certain fitness that the second try for world peace should thus recall the launching of the first.

More significant is the fact that the meeting is being held at London. That city, for geographic and political reasons, was the target at which the Axis aimed the heaviest blows it could levy. It is also the capital of the country which, with the support of its allies and colonies, stood alone for a whole year against the concentrated strength of military power the world had known. That the city still exists is the proof of how heroically it was defended, and the symbol of how completely the forces of aggression were defeated. There would be no United Nations Organization if the battle of which London was the strategic centre had been lost.

The address of King George to the delegates on the eve of the meeting rightly stressed the importance of the cause to be placed in their hands. Their representatives from nearly fifty nations, comprising ninety per cent of the population of the world. Their business is to guide humanity into the ways of durable peace.

As far as we are concerned, the most important peace we will have is a common fitness that the second try for world peace should remain the launching of the first.

the proceedings to come as the Speech at the opening of a session of parliament. Within the four corners of the Charter the Assembly is a law unto itself. It can decide what subjects need first attention, and which can be left to the future. A legislature must entirely clear the order paper. That is likely to be true also of the Assembly.

It will not be strange if this first gathering is concerned mainly with organizational business and with a survey of world conditions, rather than with specific questions.

Who is to "Occupy"

A year ago everybody was agreed that Germany and Japan must be occupied by the Allies to prevent their continuing to expand. Fifty years did not seem then to be too long a term. The general consensus was that the police forces would have to be maintained until Nazis had died out and Japanese Jengism had become a living part of the past. The idea was that the thing short of this would guarantee the world against a revival of aggression in these countries. It is still reasonable to believe that nothing less will give mankind the security to which it is entitled.

Now, accepting the occupation policy, neither German nor Japanese, we have realized the now very obvious difficulty involved. Keeping occupation forces in these enemy states means that thousands of Canadian and American soldiers are being sent there to fight the occupying troops. Provision for replacements does not seem to have been made at either capital on any definite plan known to the men now doing duty in Germany and Japan. The sooner such plans are announced, the better. Two years is the limit that men should be asked to do duty in those remote areas.

Chinese Nationalists and Communist leaders announce again that hostilities have ceased. Since General Marshall undoubtedly settled the situation, this time, perhaps it will stick.

Chicago never produced a more horrifying crime than the one that is now absorbing the energies of the police and the attention of the public. There is a prospect that aroused public opinion and sharpened official vigilance will make life in that great city safer in future.

It has been generally supposed that Sir Frederick Banting died while he was engaged in devising counter-measures against an expected attempt of the Axis powers to sow germs on this continent and thus start epidemics. The department of National Defence has confirmed this understanding. It does not say whether Sir Frederick died in an accident or whether some enemy agent had tampered with the mechanism of his plane. That is a point on which the public would like positive information, if such is in possession of the officials, or can be obtained.

Self Destruction Threatens While Divergent Groups and Individuals Confound Fact With Rumor, and Label With Content, as They Campaign for Own Selfish Ends

By Dorothy Thompson

As the UN assembly opens in London, delegations from all over the world are here to witness the opening of the war which at the beginning of the war looked to the United States as the world banner-bearer, must view the first with consternation, the second with alarm, the third with disquiet, the last with the scale of the United States.

Two weeks ago we were the world's strongest advocates of freedom, of decent people.

Molotov, with more important things to do, absent himself from UNO. An understudy is good enough.

PUBLIC OPINION is becoming a Tower of Babel, no longer a common mass.

Socialists present themselves as Liberals; Communists call themselves Fascists; Socialists are stinkers; Fascists are Facists; fascists are stinkers; Facists; fascists are Facists.

Today we are neither strong nor right.

In relation to the rest of the world, we are weak, we want the dream of autonomy, we are the only ones who will be strengthened by what will, if it occurs, amount to a general strike.

Our army, which only a few years ago had demonstrated a superb discipline, is in both Germany and Manila on the verge of mutiny.

Gradually, the unpleasant news reaches us that our occupying forces are anything but "ambassadors" in Europe.

Undisciplined for lack of strict, uncompromising discipline, they are disciplined by the consciousness that they are the symbols of a great democratic ideal, and that they are strong, and respect, and are being given only contempt, and are being beaten by the guides, are becoming a scourge.

Our army, which only a few years ago had demonstrated a superb discipline, is in both Germany and Manila on the verge of mutiny.

The Russians, whose breakthrough through the Ardennes is jammed, are getting out, and the British, retired and quiet, inspire respect.

The French, after an initial burst of revolutionary ardour, settle down to the tough, historic watch. But our men—become again the "boys" of the war—have lost their discipline, and self-indulgent, they awaken envy and resentment, not that they are tough, but that they are as no one ever saw them off in war.

Foreign visitors, from countries where the police are not as efficient as ours, look upon us, rub their eyes, and are glad to be back home, to lands where there is, at least, some reality and durability.

Soldiers, whose initial wish was only to be demobilized, re-entered the service, and are again in the army, all more secure than civilian life.

Stand Taken by Premier Drew May—

Make or Break

Dominion-Provincial Conference. Inistence on Plans Outlined by Ontario Leader Could Make Any Workable Agreement Between Federal and Provincial Governments Impossible

From the Winnipeg Free Press

Mr. Drew has finally stated his position on the Dominion-provincial financial relations. So long as the position of the larger provinces remained as it was, the government of Ontario was not known the discussions had forced to proceed in an air of unreality. Mr. Drew's statement, for better or worse, at least makes it possible to get to grips with the problem.

With Mr. Drew's contribution will ultimately facilitate, or make utterly impossible, any workable agreement to end the present financial crisis. The Ontario premier's approach to the problem is diametrically opposite to that proposed by the Dominion.

The Dominion's case, as stated to the August conference, was that the undeniably fact that the war has placed very heavy burdens and the need of post-war reconstruction structures had created unbearable responsibilities upon the federal government. The huge debt has had to be assumed, and, in addition, the re-establishment and rehabilitation of returned servicemen would cost many hundreds of millions. The burden of repaying the war-veterans' contribution to the relief of war-torn peoples would have to be met.

Under Mr. Drew's scheme, the responsibility would not rest on a direct method, but on the theory that the war was an emergency, and that the provinces should be responsible for their own expenses, namely in loans and advances to the federal government.

WHAT IN PRACTICE would this mean? If would mean in fast that no government would have real financial autonomy and that its affairs in one way and another would be subject to a body, while such, was responsible to no one. In national matters, the provinces would be limited of determining its financial policy in accordance with its direct method.

Mr. Drew's proposal would do away with the committee of provincial premiers, and the Dominion would be responsible to the federal government. The provinces would be required to meet their obligations to the federal government.

Consequently, the provinces would be compelled to meet their obligations to the federal government. The provinces would be compelled to meet their obligations to the federal government.

Finally, Mr. Drew's proposals would not bring any fundamental improvement to the confused tax situation which now exists under our economy before the war. Under Mr. Drew's plan, the provinces and the federal government would both impose the pre-war system of duplicate taxes at competitive rates on personal property.

We have hitched a post-war wagon to a star of high employment and low prices, and private enterprise and expanded capital investment. Surely experience has shown how these objectives can be achieved by the imposition of equitable assessments and arbitrary taxation.

Responsibility for unemployment and employment is implicit in our federal proposals as far as the provinces are concerned. This is a simple pattern.

At the forthcoming international trade conference called to discuss these problems, the Canadian delegation, a definite committee will be sought from each and every nation.

The Canadian delegation will be responsible to the Canadian government, and the Canadian delegation will be responsible to the Canadian government.

On the major issue, Mr. Drew's plan of the basic requirements of the post-war position, perhaps that is only a first impression. We wait for more elucidation.

CONSIDER THE POSITION of an individual province requesting assistance from Mr. Drew's proposed fund. Suppose it is strongly desired to do so.

To whom would it be referred? To the representative of the nine provinces? Or to the Dominion? In case the former, the provinces would be responsible to the people of Canada as a whole or to the people of the provinces? In either case, it is hard to escape the conclusion that under Mr. Drew's plan, the provinces would be compelled to meet their obligations to the federal government.

Finally, Mr. Drew's proposals would not bring any fundamental improvement to the confused tax situation which now exists under our economy before the war. Under Mr. Drew's plan, the provinces and the federal government would both impose the pre-war system of duplicate taxes at competitive rates on personal property.

We have hitched a post-war wagon to a star of high employment and low prices, and private enterprise and expanded capital investment. Surely experience has shown how these objectives can be achieved by the imposition of equitable assessments and arbitrary taxation.

On the major issue, Mr. Drew's plan of the basic requirements of the post-war position, perhaps that is only a first impression. We wait for more elucidation.

At Toronto Meet

Gt. Britain Nationalization Plan Explained by Morrison

TORONTO, Jan. 11.—(CP)—The private enterprise members of the Toronto Board of Trade last night were given a picture of the British Labor government's program of public ownership by Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison, deputy prime minister, who told his audience not to be shocked for the policy was "not altogether new."

THE KEY SPEECH of which over 8 CBC network.

Generally speaking, he said in an address prepared for delivery, Britain will not manage the state-owned industries by state departments and the same methods used in the coal and steel industries would be set up in charge of boards composed of men appointed because of their ability to do a business job with efficiency, imagination and enterprise in the public interest.

THE GENERAL SIGHT of selected men would be on the lines set out in a coal nationalization bill now before the British Commons, which persons in the coal industry with a recognized capacity in industrial, commercial or financial matters, science, engineering or labor organization would be chosen.

He added: "It is the fact that the great bulk of our industry will remain private enterprise and we shall not quarrel with that. As it is, at present, we have enterprise and private enterprise, and the management of a considerable number of separate entities varying from the iron and steel industry, such as iron and steel, These industries have been in different hands for a long time, and which he thought could be easily solved by the constructive and enlightened guidance of a group at the top."

CIVIL AVIATION presented something new and the government must be careful to handle it in an enlightened, imaginative and progressive way. In this they had the support of the Canadian government Trans-Canada Air Lines.

"FINALLY we shall seek to get a clearer and better picture of our national economic life, of pool the efforts of both public and private enterprise in an industrial planning process," he said.

The best of our industry we shall hope, be able to publish the economic results of nationalizing the possibilities of our national income and issue progress reports from time to time."

The plan for nationalization of the Bank of England, coal, transport, electricity, gas, civil aviation, and so on, will be held in abeyance.

First, the service concerned was a natural monopoly.

"YOU may ask," he explained, "What is involved in undertaking putting up the streets in competition in the same area; and the same happens with appliances of gas."

If such measures were continued to be private "you have got to hamper them with a lot of controls government in certain primary foodstuffs."

"Our first task is to ensure an industrial peace, and that is necessary to maintain our health," he said. "We accept the duty of stabilizing the cost of living by regularizing prices, and the Ministry of Supply has the responsibility of providing markets with guaranteed prices for our home products. We have to take care of fluctuations in international prices so producers can safely plan future production without unnecessary distribution costs."

He concluded: "We have no fear."

"HAVE NO FEAR that the new government will interfere with private business in such vital areas as coal and steel," he said. "By converting such a service to public ownership the degree of control and regulation can be exercised by the state, but the basic principles of providing markets with guaranteed prices for our home products, and taking care of fluctuations in international prices so producers can safely plan future production without unnecessary distribution costs."

There also was the common service industry such as coal and steel—industries upon which the well-being of other industries depends. It was felt that these should be conducted broadly from the point of view of public interest.

Finally, there were key industries, including a vital concern to the general welfare and health of the country, such as iron and steel. These industries have been in different hands for a long time, and which he thought could be easily solved by the constructive and enlightened guidance of a group at the top."

RETRACT STATEMENT

Stock Ownership

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(CP)—A Bank of England official said yesterday that a report carried by the Canadian Press Dec. 15 on the ownership of General Motors commercial stock in Canada was incorrect.

The report obtained from Reuters News Agency, quoted the official as saying that General Motors commercial stock pledged to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as collateral for a loan to Britain early in 1940, was not held by the property of the original British firm.

THE BANK OFFICIAL said yesterday he had made an error. He today he admitted a mistake in a list of non-marketable dollar securities borrowed by the treasury in 1940 and 1941, a long list of dollar shares of Canadian companies which were requisitioned by the treasury and purchased outright in sterling. Consequently, he said, the shares were taken from those shares to the treasury and not to the original holders, as stated in the Canadian news item.

The error arose after R. J. Thomas, international president of Workers' Councils and immediate past chairman of the United Nations Assembly, was seated yesterday as a member of the Imperial War Cabinet and immediately appointed to hold a special commission in connection with the General Motors strike, on the grounds that the British government was a substantial owner of General Motors shares.

SWEEP MINISTER To Privy Council

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(CP)—Justice Minister St. Laurent, head of the Canadian delegation to the United Nations Assembly, was seated yesterday as a member of the Imperial War Cabinet and immediately appointed to hold a special commission in connection with the General Motors strike, on the grounds that the British government was a substantial owner of General Motors shares.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Mother-In-Law's Advice Should Be Respected

Wife Who Resents Mother-In-Law's Suggestions Regarding the Baby, Wants Husband to See His Mother in Her Own Home

DEAR MOTHER-IN-LAW: What should I do or say when my mother-in-law comes to my house and gives me advice on how to rear my baby? When it is my turn to go to her home, what do I say? My mother is modern and says I should give her a piece of my mind, but I need to pack my gripes and leave my husband to entertain her.

I have asked my husband to go to see his mother at her home and not have her come to mine. We would like to have some time to do this. I have a very nervous disposition, anyway. ELEANOR.

ANSWER: I should say, Eleanor, that you are only entitled to your disposition, but that you have an exceedingly selfish and overbearing attitude. You are not the only one from other schools because the boys from our own won't ask us.

UNSUCCESSFUL DATER

ANSWER: The remedy is in your own hands. Give the boy a dose of your mother's medicine. If he likes them as they are, and best them to him.

WHAT GIRLS never seem to understand is that the advice you give will help good girls, thinking themselves as girls can. It takes the two sexes to throw a good party. So if you will just let the boys come to your home, and the food you eat come from him, and that but for his labor you have had no part in it, then you think that that entitles him to some say in it and to the right to have his mother treated as an honored guest to it.

You SPEAK of your mother-in-law as any mother would want to do. All its faults in your husband's mother's face. Have you ever considered that your mother supports it that the food you eat comes from him and the food you eat come from him, and that but for his labor you have had no part in it? Dumb-bell.

The things that keep a home together and a husband loving his wife are patience, understanding, and kindness and consideration.

AS TO WHAT you say to your mother-in-law when she advises you about your baby, tell her that you do not say anything if you can't agree with her. Listen respectfully. And if she has given you a few tips of children care, give many tips to a mother with her first baby.

You know that the doctors are not to be depended upon, old Grandmother formula for rearing children? They have discovered, for one thing, that petting a mother-in-law when she advises you about your baby, tell her that you do not say anything if you can't agree with her. Listen respectfully. And if she has given you a few tips of children care, give many tips to a mother with her first baby.

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have just been married a year and we are still learning to please him. I cook everything he would like and he won't eat any of it. He just wants his rolls and beans.

Please give some suggestions as to what I should do.

ANSWER: Did you snitch your husband out of the cradle before he gets his teeth? That's the reason he won't eat anything. Try to cure him of it and get him on a proper diet so it is good, savory and appetizing. Don't be afraid to feed him beans. They will laugh at your husband and make so much of him that he will be ashamed to eat beans.

But my, what a cinch for a bride to have a husband who can be fed on bread and milk.

DO NOT SMOTHER HIM!

You've always had a soft spot in your heart for Johnny. He's never given you a thrill . . . but there's something so sweet about him. He doesn't score as high as the other boys in school, but he's a good kid, and that's what matters to you in public speaking. Of course, you don't let that spoil your fun with the boys you do date. You're a real tomboy. Dumb-bell.

Heh! that gal. Sure she's taking him for such a ride. And his best is Petie. Why Petie borrows dough from Johnnie and never pays it back. The principal's always on Johnny's ear. And it makes you sick.

SOMETHING YOU think should be done about it. You roll up your sleeves. You tell Johnny that She's cheating on him. You needle him. You tell him to stop playing his darts. And every time the principal catches Johnnie, he adds your voice to the cry. Boys just can't stand it.

Q. "I NURSED MY BABY for nine months and was breast feeding when my breasts have not returned to normal. I tried camomile oil." A. This is a question for your physician, but I would not use camomile oil because of its effect on the appearance of the bust.

Q. "I wash my teeth with tooth paste three times a day. I use mouth wash and have strong, non-decaying teeth and eat well-balanced diet. But I have a very bad breath. What can I do?"

A. I suggest a physical checkup with your doctor. You may have diseased tonsils or sinus trouble?

Q. "I am 20 years old and don't use cream on my face." A. Wash it often and apply an emulsion twice a day. Don't use face cream on this area.

Bulletin Patterns

By ANNE ADAMS

A new series of individual United States open individual garment patterns, inaugurated at the national tournament this year. For many years the American Contract Bridge League has conducted the Masters individual world championship in which 30 outstanding players are invited to participate. The new event drew 124 players, and was played in two sessions. It was won by Theodore Stoecklin, whose individual tournaments are difficult to play, because each participant plays a different partner and against a different set of opponents each round.

Various patterns were obtained on Mr. Stoecklin's hand, and some players bid four diamonds. At other tables, South opened the bidding with spade, which kept East and West from opening one table. East bid no trump over one club, and with a spade lead, South made all his diamond tricks. At Mr. Samuels' table, East and West got into a four-round bidding war, and when South opened 15 diamonds, he was forced to bid a club, the contract would have been made, but with the ace of hearts opening, three heart tricks were needed to make the contract. Mr. Samuels made a fine play. He led the deuce of diamonds right into the dummy, and South cashed all his cards. You can see that it was impossible for declarer to make his contract.

JOHNNIE DOESN'T mind your meddling, but he knows your hands well enough to notice when you do it. And your class notes help him make the grade. But he does not notice when you are looking around. He doesn't mind, because you think your mothering him . . . but he thinks it smothering. So he'll keep his distance and not spend his dough on some other girl.

If you're trying to make an impression, you're . . . well, you will. You'll be blushing. No, you won't. He'll duck every time he sees you. He won't notice those dates about town. Petie, Petie, Petie. Dumb-bell.

Look, he can manage his own affairs. So go chase yourself! Johnnie will think you're meddling . . . not you around.

Johnnie isn't bashful, and if he likes your taste, he'll tell you so. He likes to do his own choosing . . . and he much prefers a girl who is . . . well, you know.

So keep out of Johnnie's way . . . and out of his hair. Blow on your own eye. And let him struggle on his own. There's no use wasting your time over a guy who doesn't appreciate you. You can't expect other fellows who do. And if Johnnie doesn't have to run him, he'll keep his distance and spend his dough on some other girl.

Navy, Air Force Seek Personnel For Peacetime

Recruiting of interim and permanent personnel for the RCAF and the Royal Canadian Navy is now under way, and discharged airmen being circumled by letter as to the advantages of joining up with the permanent force.

FORMER AIR FORCE personnel are invited to make application for either the permanent force or to be later taken on strength of the regular air force if they meet requirements.

Only those who have a real desire to make the air force a career are invited to apply. Former Air Force officials urged those thinking of rejoining to "consider the proposal very carefully" before making a decision.

THE LETTER POINTS out that conditions will not be known before March 31 next but "it is confidently expected that pay and allowances and other considerations will be such that it will be so favorable to make a career in the air force fully as attractive as civilian employment."

The letter also states that recruiting recruits for both its interim and permanent forces. Many of those due for discharge are eligible for further service in the interim force for a period of two years. Some new recruits are also being taken in.

THE REGULAR NAVY will have a strength of 10,000 men. Both air force and naval officials in Edmonton state there is a good response to the appeal to join Canada's permanent forces.

War Savings Stamp Bar Is Abandoned

The war savings stamp bar was a feature of the war years, but has been abandoned. It has been a feature of the war years, has been abandoned and has been turned over to the department for a ticket vending office at Clark Stadium. It was announced Thursday that the stamp bar was the vice-chairman of the Alberta National War Finance Committee which was dissolved as from Dec. 31 last.

Many Navy Wrens Being Discharged

Wrens are now being discharged from the Royal Canadian Navy in large numbers and as a result two ships of the Royal Canadian Navy will visit HMCS Nonsuch next week to confer on release of feminine personnel from the navy here.

THE DIRECTORATE of the Royal Canadian Legion, Lt. Col. E. C. Scott from the Directorate of Rehabilitation, naval head quarters, Ottawa, has informed Kidder, directorate of personnel selection, also of Ottawa.

They will be here Jan. 16 and 17 for conferences with rehabilitation officers at Nonsuch.

Camrose Facing Housing Problem

The sharp increase during war years of the population of Camrose has put that town in a bind with regard to housing problems. It was disclosed at a meeting of the Camrose citizens' rehabilitation committee that it had been a ridge and A. D. Kennedy of the department of veterans affairs would be here Jan. 16 and 17 for conferences with rehabilitation officers at Nonsuch.

THE COMMITTEE in Camrose, like those of similar towns, is seeking every means of cooperation with all departments of the war effort, Mr. Aldridge said, and at the Wednesday meeting, the committee decided to make a study of possibilities in Camrose for training on the job opportunities for veterans.

There are a few men in the town receiving number one benefits, Mr. Aldridge said, but the employment problem is not regarded as serious.

CCF in Protest On Jap Treatment

HALIFAX, Jan. 11—(CP)—The Halifax district council of the CCF has decided to protest the treatment of Japanese Canadians by the Prime Minister Mackenzie King asking the dominion government to reverse its policy of planning the deportation of 10,000 Japanese-Canadians from this country. The resolution, adopted at the annual meeting of the CCF last week, is composed of 17 members representative of technical educators, labor, employers and women's interests.

Fred McLean, deputy minister of education, is leaving Friday night for Ottawa to attend, as chairman, the meeting of the advisory council on vocational training.

The council is bound for a four day meeting after which the deputy minister will return to Halifax for the annual meeting of the Canadian and Newfoundland Educational Association.

For the first time in Alberta the Canadian National Education Association is meeting in Edmonton. The meeting will be attended by between 150 and 200 educationalists from all parts of Canada.

The annual conference which meets this week is composed of 17 members representative of technical educators, labor, employers and women's interests.

HOMER

Hail Committee Will Meet Here

The Alberta legislative assembly will hold a special session in the parliament building here on Thursday by David Ure, MLA, Red Deer, chairman.

Hearings have already been held in the south of the province, and the next session of the committee will go to Peace River on Saturday.

A report on the hearings made at these hearings will be tabled in the Legislature at the coming session, Mr. Ure said.

The Road Ahead

with the balance in easy monthly payments of $35 plus interest at 6 per cent. The selling price, $320. In other words the price more than doubled.

The payments of the first month are just too much for the man with an ordinary pay. He will have, on top of his payment, the cost of taxes, the insurance, and the light, heat and water, and will cost him more to live than he can afford in the house. With the small down payment, the large unpaid balance will be an old man's burden.

But the payments of the first month, of course, is that the buyer will fail to meet the payments in which case he will be liable to the bank and will agree with another dealer. In this case the department of veterans affairs just puts the foot down and says nothing.

IT IS IN THIS LOW-PRICED income group that the greatest opportunity for the outside operator. These operators know that most returned men can, with savings, granaries, and a little capital, put up $1,000 or less. Therefor they put all the emphasis on the small down payment, and about the same amount of money as the seller is in the agreement for sale. This kind of operating is naughty, but it is.

Another favorite trick of this type of operator is to get hold of an old man who has a house he wants to finish it. Then they offer it for rent or sale furnished. They will rent it for only a few months and then offer the furniture and could furnish the place with solid mahogany trimmings to real good. But, but, but, the old man may have nerve enough to call furniture. But, once again, the sheer drive of the salesmen and the kind drives men to put out previous savings for the furniture.

SO ONCE AGAIN a word of warning to those who want to buy homes. Don't sign anything, don't put up any cash demands, don't let your wife sign, but if you have discussed the proposition with the officials of the department of veterans affairs, and you are a country boy go to see the local Legion officials or the bank manager. And remember, the consumer is the owner of the citizens' rehabilitation committee, and the chairman of the citizens' rehabilitation committee can make a difference. And the more you do for them, the more home the less you date trust your own judgment.

Deputy Minister Leaving For East
